

Information sheet regarding legal address in Moscow

“Every company and every representative office within Russia must have a legal address. It must be secured, that the public authorities are aware of this address from the moment of foundation. This address is used by the public authorities, first the finance office, to stay in contact with the company.”

- Extract from the Russian Civil Code

For what do I need a legal address in Russia?

- For the foundation of a company or the registration of a representative office.
- For the implementation of an official head quarter.
- As an official address for the finance office.

What are the possibilities to get a legal address in Moscow?

First option: rent an office in Moscow.

- In that case be aware of the fact that the landlord must explicitly allow to use the address as a legal address. Ask the landlord to give you a written confirmation.
- All rental contracts with our company include the right to use the address as a legal address.
- This option is the best one to get a legal address in Moscow.

Second option: You need to have a legal address but do not want to rent an office in Moscow. We offer you to register your legal address using the address of our office. For the following reasons this address in Moscow is a good choice:

- Only a few selected customers of Rufil Russia Consulting are allowed to use this address. Firstly, only German companies and other international companies within Moscow are using this address. This address is not in charge for too many companies.
- After a successful registration, this address can easily be used for the foundation of a company, for the implementation of a bank account and it is possible to join in calls for proposals with it.
- We offer this legal address in combination with our accounting services. Thereby we can guarantee that if the finance office wants to check your company, there always will be the chief accountant who is in charge for your company to answer every upcoming question professionally.

- We take care of your mails. Our permanently employed courier is closely connected to the Russian post office and your letters will be picked up by our employees.
- Further information you will find at the category "Legal Address in Moscow" on our website

Watch out using mass or dummy addresses in Russia!

We strongly recommend to not to use mass or dummy addresses. One single address often is used for thousands of companies. If this address is listed on a blacklist at the finance office, banks, or other companies, it can be very tough to establish a new company, create a bank account or join in calls for proposals. Those mass addresses are not taking care of incoming mails, which is why letters of the finance office or other public authorities are often not replied.
